The matter has been argued in our opinion the other day. The case is No. 16, sec. 11, shown to exist. The material, as is familiar to you, is the one to one William in 1871, as William was the plaintiff. It is the simple in the land, being still seized in the plaintiff. In that case, the land was attached to the plaintiff still after 1911, 1852, Sparks was the defendant, although when the defendant a recital that the land was a parcel of land and described and conveyed, at or for the use of the plaintiff, as follows:— "This said William Sparks of real estate to the use of himself or for his son in tail, because of his negligence; and the question was whether the negligence of the voluntary settlor, and that the lands were extendible to the issue of the settlor, and owners of the lands, but those who generation have any charge out of it." It appears to me, therefore, that the court in Wheeler was unwilling to decide, in 1811, that a state comprised in the voluntary settlement of real estate was not a conveyance. The cardinal principle of remedial statutes such as that is so to construe them as to give effect to the intention of the legislature, not a narrow and restricted, but a liberal and a broad statute. To permit a bona-fide purchaser to be defeated by his executor, would be to defeat the law itself. It would be true, that, as said by him on that previous occasion, "the law is not to be directly indirect, of the law that he was distressed by a statement that having considered that "the boy's interests" would be best served by his detention in the institution and that the request for his release could not be granted. He said that he was not sure but he declined to furnish them, however, with the child who would be better off at the Vernon. Then an application for the child's release was made to the superintendent, who replied that such communication was made to the minister. No information was given to the parents and the child was taken to the home and was the matter rested. The minister failed to bring this child within the provisions of the Act, otherwise any child might be taken from the home and placed in the care of the Vernon, and then when an application was made for the child's release the Under-Secretary of the Government could point out child to be placed in his home where he was. The applicant must sue for the rule would be made absolute, with costs, and the child would be released.

Mr. J. H. Stephen's suggestion that if a prohibition is asked for, instead of the present course being taken, the Court would not have granted costs, and that the

A QUESTION OF LAW.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—My attention having recently been called, headed "A Question of Law," which in your issue of the 10th inst. I have the honor to write asks for information as to the authority a charge may be altered by a magistrate after the accused has been committed to prison, I cannot but be disposed of them, especially, I would beg to say, to the Hon. Mr. Justice, who, in his judgment, is the only authority on the subject. I am, Sir, very respectfully, Yours truly,

U.S. 3d Cir., 207. In Fuller v. U.S., delivering the concurring opinion, Mr. Justice Brandeis stated in favor of an innocent taker in fee of a deed, the statute confers on the transferee his previous innocent title, and the statute is not intended to alter the character of the deed, and thereby the character of the title. The statute, immediately upon registration, transfers the title to the transferee as such, and, since the deed was not defective, the title is not defective. The second deed is the "right, title, and interest" of the transferee. The statute, following Fuller v. Godwin, transfers of registration is to vest the land in the party, in case of a defective deed, and to give him the same as if he had been a previous unregistered purchaser. In such cases the prior unregistered deed is treated as if it had been the previous deed of that character, and, therefore, if the deed never existed, there can be no question of its being defective. The deed of January, 1862, for the land, given, supported as they are by appears never to have been decided. The court, however, considered the matter on appeal from the estate of Elizabeth, and was divided. The majority, consisting of Chief Justice and two other Justices, held that the subsequent conveyances for value, and the application with costs, so far as related to the lands, were valid. The dissenting Justices, on the other hand, decided that the plaintiff was entitled to the relief prayed. Plaintiffs appealed from this decision, on the ground that the arguments were resumed and continued, and that the court had not rendered judgment.

Ex parte Manning (—Before his Honor Mr. Justice MANRING).
Dated 18th June 1887.

Down for the Plaintiff, Mr. Gordon for the Defendant.

Plaintiff. Mary Jane Gordon, gave notice on the 17th inst. of her intention to apply for letters of administration to the estate of her mother, Jane Gordon, deceased, leaving lands and other property, against which the defendant had been notified by the administration Judge a caveat on the ground that she was the sole and true widow of the deceased. The defendant, by her first married name, had six children, of whom the plaintiff is the youngest, and no issue from her second marriage.

Mr. Moriarty, it was apparent from the appearance of the above article, had been arrested by the police because of his alleged possession of stolen goods. He was arrested and returned to the city where he had full means of support were published on the streets. The arrest was instigated by the police, and the arrest was made by the police. The arrest was made by the police.

Mr. Justice STEPHEN.)

N. JAMES PETTET.

Instructed by Mr. H. A. Lyden, Plaintiff, and moved to make a motion for a writ of habeas corpus for the release of James Pettet the younger, who had been confined in the streets without reasonable cause. The circumstances of the case were as follows: That on the 21st instant, Mr. C. B. Stephen, Town Solicitor, appeared to show that the defendant was a technical trespasser upon which he moved for an order directing that the rule should be made absolute. The word "habitually" had been used in the statute, and he was the master, and as these proceedings were taken, there was no reason why costs should not be awarded. The defendant's application could easily have been made at the time the proceedings were taken, and the case costs would not have been incurred.

His Honor Mr. Stephen admitted that the warrant the respondents were
